

Shopping: A Man Goes Shopping

One of the things I'm most famous for in my classes is making jokes about the differences between men and women. I don't think it's possible to talk about shopping without talking about them just a tiny bit.

But, though you may think I'm going to make fun of women now. . . you're wrong. I do think it's crazy how much fun women have shopping, but today I want to talk about some mistakes I made while 'shopping like a man.'

What do you think I mean when I say I was shopping like a man? What mistakes do you think I made? I guess you'll just have to listen to the recording to find out!

After You've Heard the Recording

Have you ever made mistakes like the ones that I talked about? In the recording, I used some stereotypes about men and women. Do you think they're accurate, or do you think I exaggerated a bit too much? What does 'shopping like a man' mean to you?
