

Thanksgiving: My Favorite Holiday

Today is Thanksgiving in the U.S., and I have to say that this is my favorite of all the American holidays. It has nothing to do with the Thanksgiving story, and everything to do with spending time with my family, and looking at the bright side of life for a weekend.

All but one of my brothers and sisters will be together today with my parents at my parents house, and you can bet we'll be eating a lot. And we'll be telling old stories and driving my wife crazy. But none of that is why this is my favorite holiday. To find that out, you'll just have to listen to the recording.
